This graph represents the difference between the homeless populations of all of Southern Nevada and Las Vegas, the biggest city in Southern Nevada. There has been a decrease in the homeless population in recent years. A clear spike in homelessness during the beginning of the recession which greatly affected populations in Southern Nevada and Las Vegas.

This graph represents the difference between sheltered and unsheltered homeless populations in Las Vegas. Although the homeless population has decreased overtime, there are now more homeless individuals living in unsheltered street than sheltered locations.
